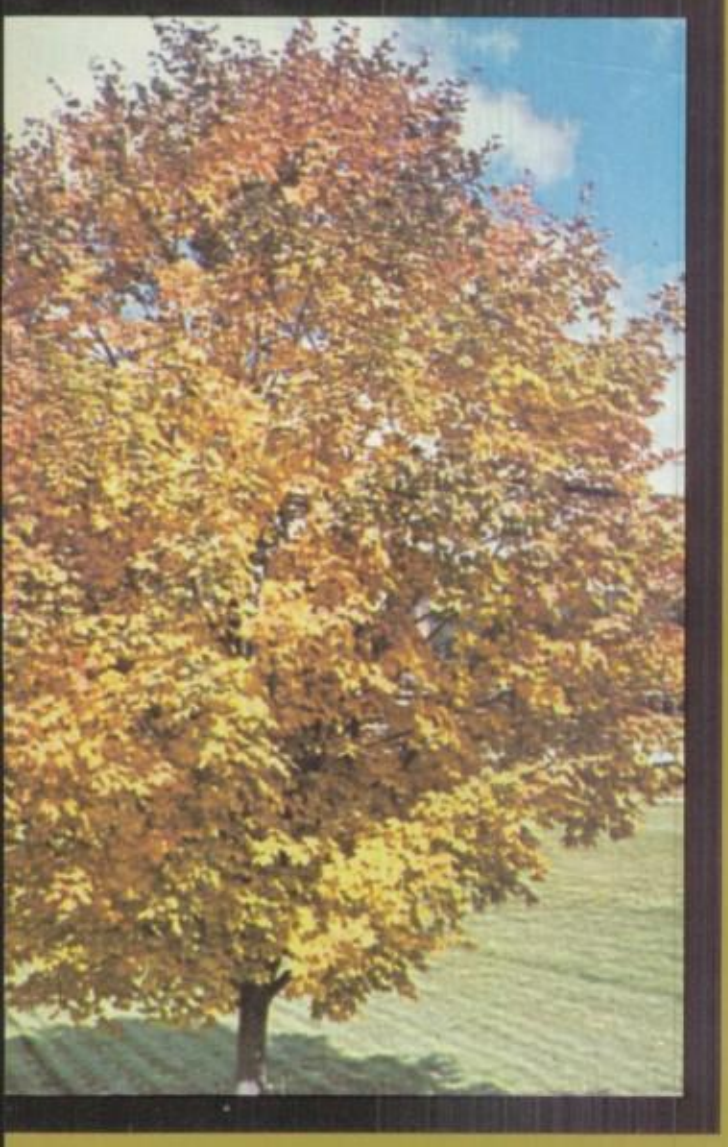
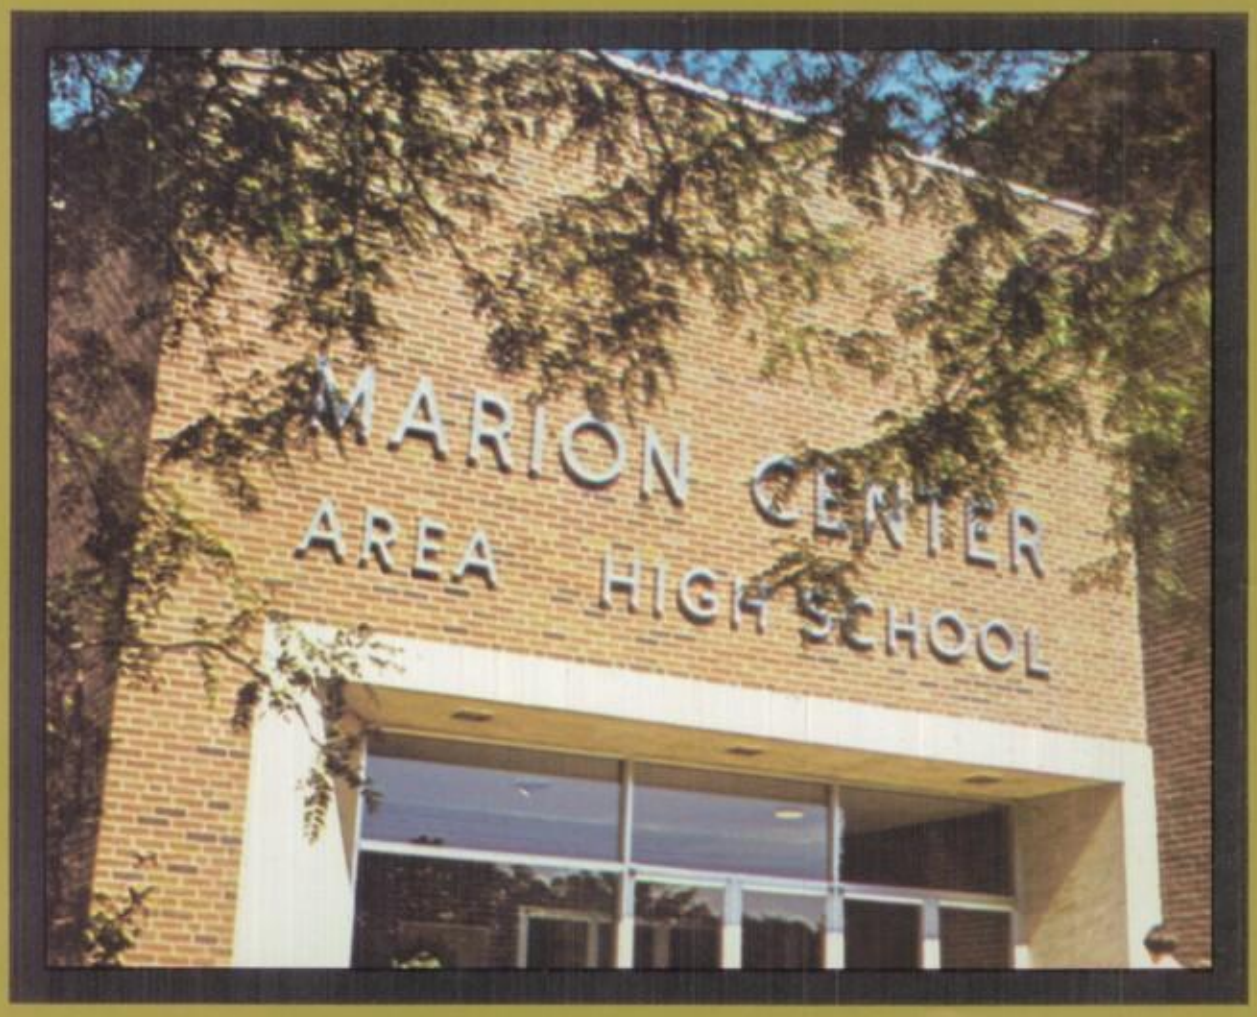
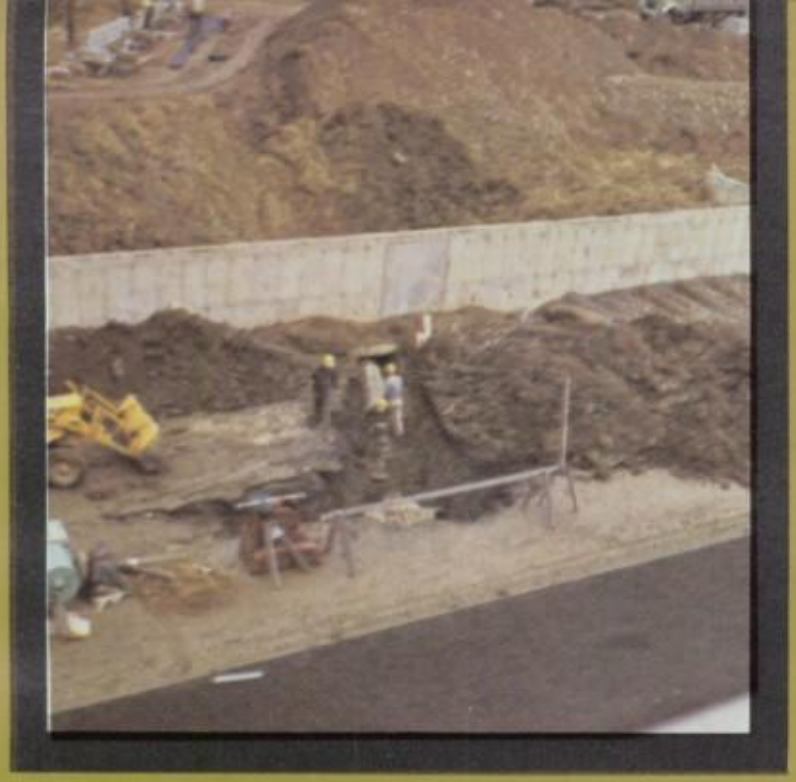
1973 A YEAR TO BUILD

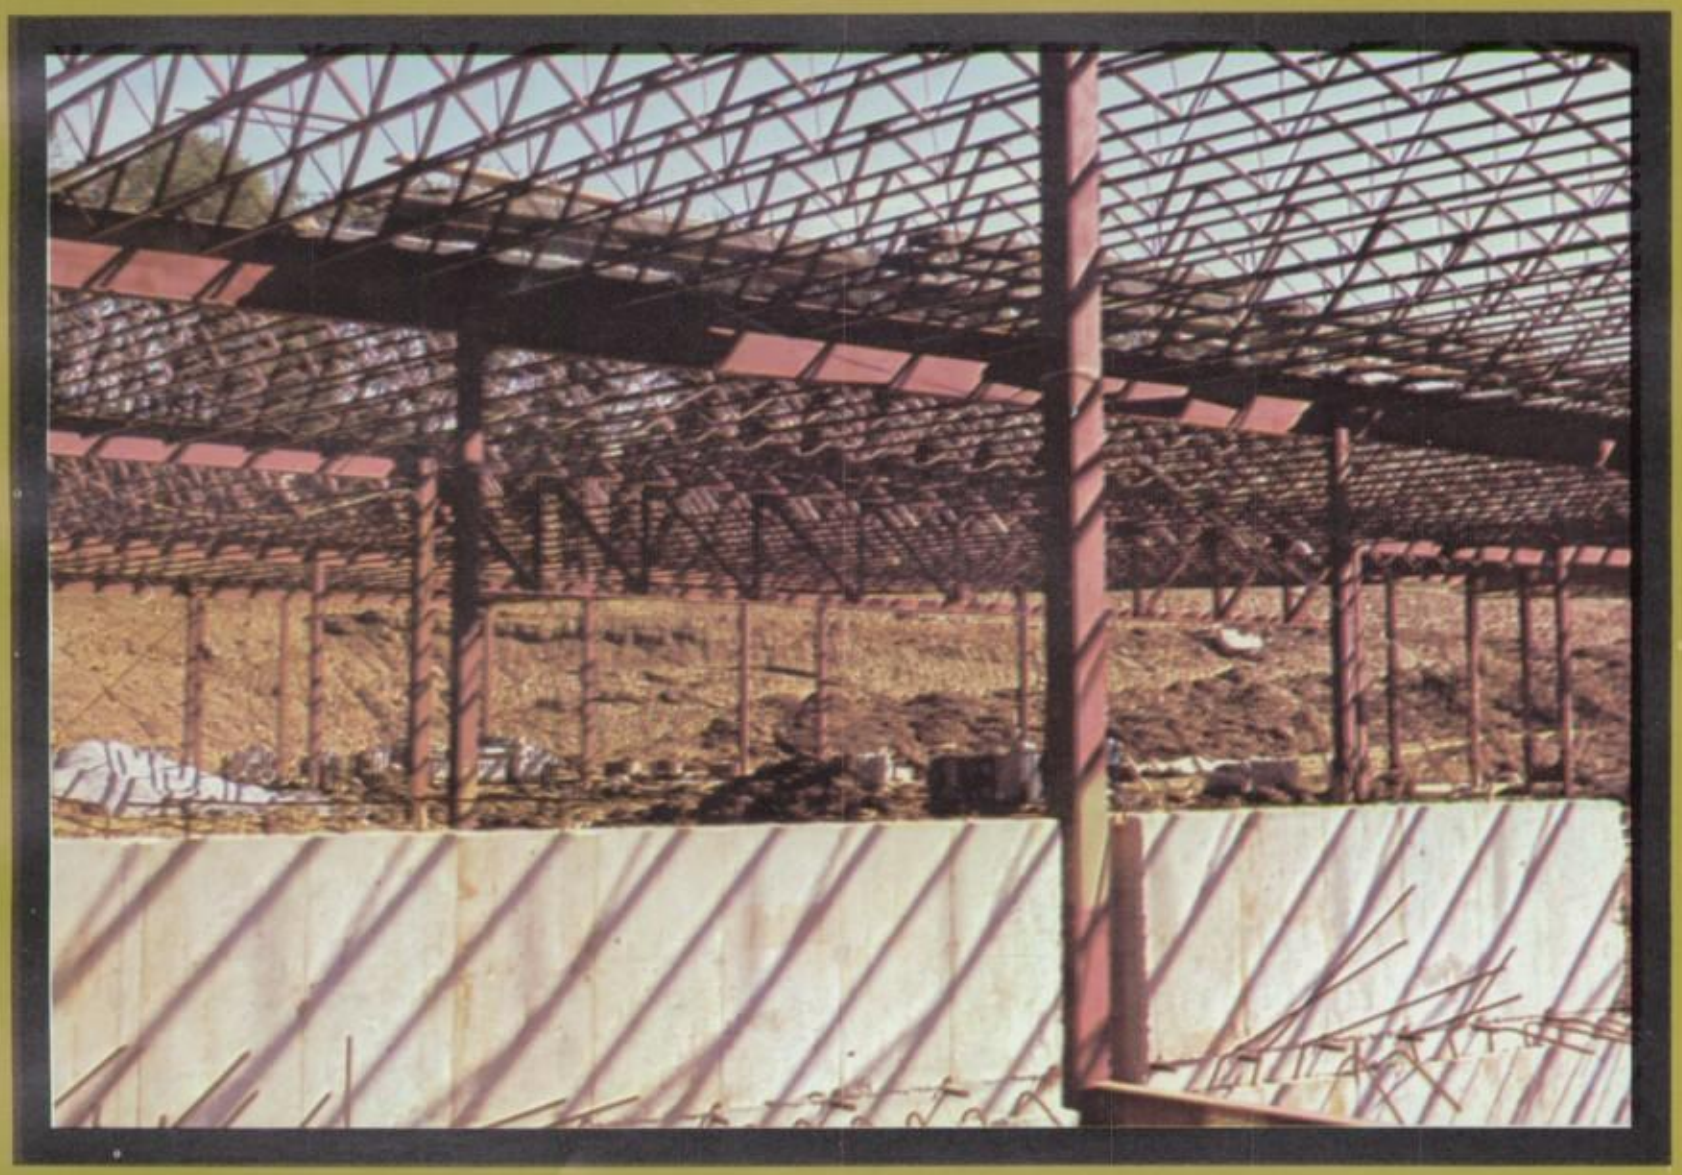
The original High School building consisting of seven rooms was erected in 1929. Five teachers were employed at that time. In 1955 the first addition was completed. It consisted of 29 class rooms, a guidance department, secretarial services department, a health suite, a library, and a gym. With this addition the faculty increased to 41. The last addition to the original school was in 1962. The new addition involved a custodians' room, wood and drafting shops, a business department, and a music department.

On May 19, 1972, a ground breaking ceremony took place for the intermediate elementary addition to Marion Center High School complex. This new design structure brought M.C. a swimming pool, a new dining area, and more space in which the students could expand their education.









APPRECIATING AWARENESS

It was a year to build awareness. To have seen the plans of a new school and then anticipate its completion enveloped M.C. Everywhere administration, teachers, and students looked they saw a new growth, a beginning; students noticed a small, odd shaped mobile which hung in a doorway, a round hole mystified three sophomores, and even politics let students have a different view on who would win the presidential election. Maybe concepts were changing to serious matters, but the idea of taking time out to have a snowball fight was fun. Why not turn around or focus your eyes on something unusual, ugly, or beautiful? To be aware was the real thing.

INDIVIDUALS BUILD CHARACTER

An individual built up his character by seeking his goal when he participated in activities he enjoyed most.

During a group session, someone who had not realized he was apart showed his individuality by assuming a contra position. A person who had a part in an activity felt the satisfaction of merit resulting when he played his best and came out victorious. Accomplishments were rewarded with a smile knowing a job had been well done.

All this adds up to the ability of one individual that can be used for his own benefit or for the benefit of all.

ACCURACY AND EXACTNESS CONSTRUCT PRECISION

Precision was displayed in many different ways throughout Marion Center, including one of the choral festivities held at Christmas time to instill the spirit of Christmas in everyone. Precision was also essential for our high-stepping majorettes. Accuracy and exactness were important to our twirlers in comprising their skillful and intricate routines. Another type of precision was displayed by the drum major in her explicit marching as she led our award winning band in one of their numerous parades. Even the cars in the parking lots became precision makers in the exact way they were lined up.

ACHIEVING GOALS

Achievement was the goal for many deserving M.C. students and teachers. The DAR Award was given to a senior girl whose achievements were leadership, patriotism, service and dependability. Putting all strength and ability into the rings gave others a sense of accomplishment. An excellent portrayal of Boswell's Dr. Samuel Johnson displayed the success of one student and provided enjoyment for his peers. High scorers on the National Education Development Test . . . Teachers and students combined efforts to achieve common goals. And our great basketball team with a fine record of 24-1 put all their strength and ability into an excellent season. All of these goals were reached only with determination and hard work.

THE BUILDING BLOCKS

As they progressed throughout the year, M.C.'s students and teachers created building blocks of friendship in many ways.

Sitting on the sidewalk sharing a "coke", playing a game of dominoes among friends, and a student teacher portraying various people especially children, while singing "Rubber Duckie" made everyone show respect, affection and love for one another.

Couples have fun at the annual Christmas Dance, students collecting postage stamps for one less fortunate Mrs. Susan McElroy, a faculty member talking to parents on Parents Night while garbed in a native Indian costume and helping to sell pictures all added to the building of friendships.

You've come a long way since the days of reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic. Your daily life's procedures have changed not only in the classroom, but also out in the fast moving world . . . on an educational field trip, or just at home at night to enjoy the evening activities.

Peace in Vietnam was the greatest news of national importance for the students of M.C. This meant the students could now disregard their P.O.W. bracelets and pins; and, for the first time, M.C. students knew the hope which only Worldwide peace could fulfill.

EXPRESSIONS AT FACE VALUE

73's young were found in the student body of Marion Center when given an opportunity to grow and mature they would be sure to guide tomorrow's destinies. Those expressions were the feelings of surprise . . . joy . . . heralding the changes of seasons . . . involvement . . . that came about by everyday experiences.

The "73 Generation" participated in victory games, touched a yellow mum, told Santa their wishes, thought of graduation, and utilized their voices during musicals. All those activities were noticed by the people who took time to look at these expressions. 1973 had them all!

"WHEELS OF AUTHORITY"

Dedication. That was another name for the Marion Center Area School Board. These wheels of authority "ground away" many times until 2:00 a.m. at the regular monthly meetings. On the shoulders of these nine devoted men rested the responsibility of operating the Marion Center Area Schools. It established, equipped, furnished, and maintained the elementary schools and the high school. The school board was also responsible for purchasing text books, all supplies, and equipment needed to operate the schools. It selected and hired teachers, adopted the annual operating budget and established all rules and regulations for students and school personnel. These men were elected for four years by the people of the area. They received no reimbursement for their labors except that of satisfaction for a job well done. It was because of these dedicated men that Marion Center Area School District operated so smoothly.

Mr. Woodrow Phillippi, Superintendent, questions Mr. Conrad Gamble, head of Gamble & Gamble Construction Co., about the materials to be used in the building of the new W. A. McCreery Elementary School.

. . . by the state Department of Education, the members of the Building Authority did a fine job of overseeing the construction of the W. A. McCreery Elementary School. They watched over all the expenditures and thoughtfully approved all order changes in the construction of the new school. The authority attended monthly meetings at which they discussed the progress of the building and also, two or three members of the authority met weekly with the architects and builders to discuss future plans.

The members of the Authority were all residents of the Marion Center School District and were very concerned with erecting an outstanding school for the children of this area.

Administrative Assistant, Mr. John R. Mallino

Thoughts from a student passing through:
In hopes that this school will always deserve your loyalty;
In hopes that you, its administrators,
will always deserve my respect;
In hopes that I, as a student, may make a contribution toward these goals before I leave, and find the common spark deep within us both that will blaze forever and enlighten our future.

Assistant Principal Mr. Robert L. Stewart

BEHIND THE DESK, BUT STILL ON TOP

Behind the desk he sat, proud and respected in his position. The words that fell upon the heart of the waiting student were assured and confident. They may have brought hope, disappointment, or sometimes punishment.

Our administrators did their best to keep harmony in the classroom. They signed endless forms and papers, listened tirelessly to complaints of faculty, students, and service personnel, and coped patiently with the growing pains of young adulthood. They did their best to inspire thoughts, confidence, and action.

An administrator was a builder! He was helping build the character of hundreds of students and many of the ideals which he built will remain throughout the lives of these young adults, for the administrator put all his time, energy and wisdom into building better young men and women to be turned out into the world.

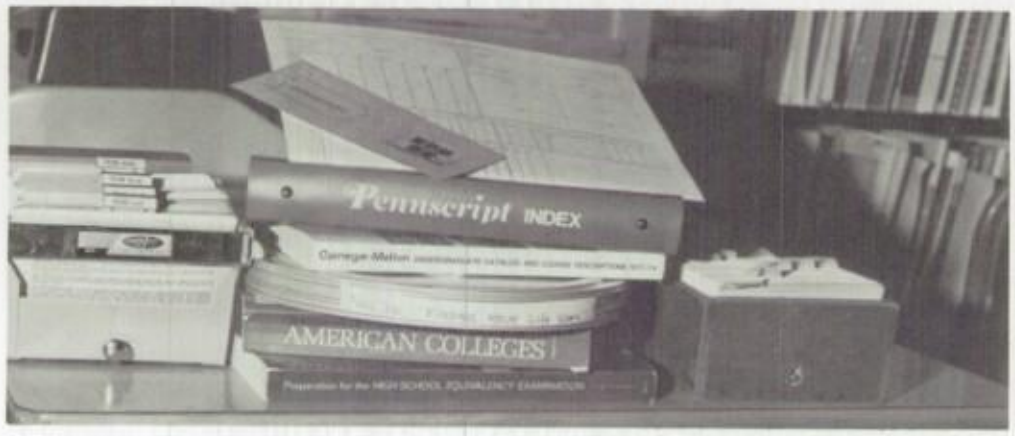
Mrs. Doris Adamson



Mr. Ralph Hoover

Our Guidance Counselors always were willing to lend a hand in scheduling classes, explaining test scores, and distributing booklets on careers. They could always be found showing catalogues of colleges, trade, and technical schools to all interested students.

On December 15, 1973, the Marion Center High School was invaded by servicemen in uniform for Armed Forces Day. These men talked to all interested students about the Armed Forces and also gave tests. This day was sponsored by our Guidance Counselors. The newest addition to our guidance office was a microfilm reader printer. Student records and occupational information were recorded on this microfilm. Also purchased were Pennscripts on occupational literature for the Indiana and Armstrong Counties. The new equipment proved to be very helpful in giving students a closer look at careers and jobs.

While walking down the hall, one glance into the guidance office revealed the smiling face of guidance secretary, Mrs. Doris Adamson. She was always busy typing forms, looking up records, or running errands for Miss Grau and Mr. Hoover.

Because of these efficient guidance counselors and secretary, the lives of the students were made a bit easier.

"Attention please to an announcement. Will the owner of the solid gold Rolls Royce, license number 1973 MONEY27, with the ruby studded hubcaps and the crystal whiskey decanters and the diamond encrusted bumper stickers please report to the office? Thank You."

Morning announcements, absentee lists, the constant clicking of typewriters, and a never ending hustle and bustle of each day . . . It's no wonder a secretary got a headache. Day after day they entered the school contemplating another day's work. Each evening they left satisfied with a job well done.

The secretaries were capable of a smile, despite the ingratitude und inconveniences that sometimes accompanied the job. It's not always easy to type up business letters, count money, and speak nicely to a student all at the same time. Headache after headache filled each day in the life of a secretary.

ENGLISH BUILDS BRIDGES OF COMMUNICATION

Thoughtful moments were precious times when thinking was possible, whether in an enlightening English class, a stimulating Public Speaking class, or in the quiet library. English courses tried to give a better understanding of man. Weeks were spent by the student learning to express himself clearly and trying to understand the ideas of others. Through short stories, poems, and novels, the student was able to see what others were and therefore, learn more about himself. English built more effective communication and helped each student realize his fullest potential.

PONDERING the DAYS of the FUTURE-PAST

This past year at Marion Center the halls were filled with cries of "Is Indira Ghandi really crosseyed?" and "Who was the first woman to start Women's Lib?" These were some of the many questions raised by students as their history studies turned toward more current problems. Students learned how to face the world they lived in and to realize that they were individuals with a life of their own. The dangers of drugs, juvenile delinquency and crime were discussed.

Topics of widespread interest were discussed, also. These confabs included the war, the economic state and welfare of other countries, and, of course, America's very own Presidential election. Altogether it was a very interesting year for history students at Marion Center.

MATH IS A CLASS THAT COUNTS

Multiplication tables, geometric figures, Euclid's theory, Pythagorean theorem, sines and cosines, all these mathematical concepts were constantly running through the channels of a student's mind. After such mindexpanding (?) classes, the math teachers would frequently hear pleas of "Why do we need this stuff?" and "How much time is left?" These questions often went unanswered. Math classes were among the most memorable for the students. Who could ever forget Mr. Krivonick's gum chewing or how Mr. Dembosky's figures always cancelled out and went to dreamland? At the end of the year, the students looked back on those memorable days and realized that things weren't all that bad. After all they could have been worse.

THE SAGA OF THE M. C. SCIENCES

There was a time in the school year of 1972-1973 when Chemistry, Biology, Advanced, and General Science students took to their books for a year of fun.

To start off what could have been an otherwise great year, the Biology students had to bring in plants which resulted in about 26 cases of Poison Ivy and/or Poison Sumac. By the end of the first six weeks, just about everything looked like a tree. The Chemistry students weren't doing too much better. The result of their capers with chemicals included not only successful experiments, but approximately 42 cases of first degree burns to hands and 14 thoroughly boiled books. Life was less exciting, but a little safer for the General Science classes. After all, having set fire to hydrogen bubbles can't be as exciting as all that.

It was rather dangerous and there were a few casualties; but, in spite of it all, the M.C. Sciences were fun.

CELL UPON CELL UPON . . . and Teacher's Aides

"Does the blood go through the right auricle or the left ventricle? Do we really have to watch this movie? I can't stand the sight of blood!" The health student learned every single muscle, nerve, and bone in the body. They watched film after film of bloody organs, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and emergency childbirth. Throughout the room was a sickly glow of pale, white faces. Down in the health room, commonly referred to as "the dungeon," was where Mr. McGinnis kept all his supplies, including the skeleton in his closet.

Mrs. Doris Bush, the school nurse, was constantly being sought by students and faculty alike. The nurse's office was continually invaded by chemistry students who forgot to dilute the sulfuric acid, not to mention the thousands of aspirins given out each day for headaches after tests, research papers, and school, in general.

The teacher's aides were in classrooms to assist the teacher in any way possible. They ran errands, taught classes, and learned the fundamental skills of teaching from a professional! The teacher's aides proved to be a great asset to the educational program at M.C.

ROUGH TRIP THROUGH THE GYM

Most students were sure it was a plot to do away with the more unfavorable ones of our rank, but the gym teachers claimed they just wanted to keep us "physically fit!" Teaching the girls to play basketball was like turning a herd of angry, wild, animals loose in the gym, and the boys with their dodge ball were worse yet! But Mr. Robert Young and Miss Barbara Caldwell pursued their tasks, insisting that they could teach us to do the impossible. The year's activities included, tumbling and everything in between.

PATIENCE AND THE STUDENT DRIVER

It only happened once in everyone's lifetime! You got behind the steering wheel for the first time, and Mr. Holtz's or Mr. Stear's face went white for the millionth time since they have been driver's education teachers at Marion Center. It must be that they never really got used to the thrills that student drivers could give. No matter how many times the car went off the road, Mr. Holtz and Mr. Stear kept their cool and very calmly steered the car back where it belonged, before breathing that deep sigh of relief and having the color restored to their faces. Students owed a lot to Mr. Stear's and Mr. Holtz's patience and understanding and counted on them to get them through rough times on the road.

HOME EC. "STEAKS" OUT AT M.C.

As students walked past the home economics room on days when the aroma of delicious food filled the air, they often grasped their stomachs and gave a little moan. On other days they could smell burnt food and soon their taste buds went dry.

Home Economics was a course that included both boys and girls. The boys, attired in aprons and with clean hands, took over the "women's place in the kitchen." They worked hard trying to prepare foods that, surprisingly enough, tasted great! After they finally learned how to light the stove, measure out sugar, and work the dishwasher, they were excellent gourmet chefs.

The girls at M.C. finally learned last year "how to find a man and keep him." in the Family Relations class. They also learned about raising children in the Child Development and Care course. In the arts and crafts class they often found themselves "all tied up" in their work of Macrame. They had strings tied from one end of the home making room to the other.

Miss Zugates, the dietitian of the school, worked hard in planning the menus for the high school and the elementary schools. It was her responsibility to purchase food, hire and train personnel, and keep records and reports. This year ended Miss Zugates' career as dietitian at M.C. completing 18 years of service. She left this school knowing the job was well done.

MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE

Your mission, should you have decided to accept was to take a course in Industrial Arts. The men who taught these courses of Power Technology, shop, agriculture, and drafting were among the bravest men in the school. They endured such daring experiences as having their keys ground down on the circular sander and constantly being bombarded by scraps of wood. They also risked lives and limbs by teaching the ag students how to operate farm equipment. The missions given to the students included tearing apart a flood-damaged 1972 Nova donated by General Motors Corp. and building clocks, lamps, and furniture. The drafting students were required to make blueprints of their dream houses. These missions often did seem impossible, but they were usually completed on time. THE EARTH HAS MUSIC FOR THOSE WHO LISTEN

Music could be heard throughout the halls of Marion Center as the music directors led the bands and choruses during rehearsals. If you were anywhere near room 41 during any fourth period, chances are you would have heard the laughter of the choruses as they trailed through the "doobey-doobey-doo's" of Bach's Bouree or when the sopranos hit the high A while recording Hallelujah Chorus, only to blast out the tape recorder. The choruses were directed by Mrs. Maxine Wellen.

M.C.'s Senior band, directed by Keith Bloom, had a year never to be forgotten by the band members. The summer band trips to fairs and parades proved to be many memorable experiences. The band climaxed its year with a trip to Canada's Niagara Falls to the 1973 Blossom Festival. The band toured the falls in the evening and also attended a Rock Festival. Much practice and hard work went into this trip.

Cadet Band under, the direction of Mr. Ralph Cribbs, had the honor of recording a record. Over 160 copies of this record were sold by the members of the Cadet Band. They also participated in a spring concert.

THE "FINER" THINGS IN LIFE

How could anyone remember all those verbs? Somehow the French, Latin, and Spanish Students managed. The year seemed to be filled with conjugated verbs, sentence structures, memorized words, and more verbs. These were some of the hassles of the first, second and even third year language students.

There was the serious side to school life and then there were the classes taught by Mr. Palmer. There it was a time for relaxation, making "orange" juice glasses, and breathing fumes from the kiln. That's not to mention the coordination most students displayed with the potter's wheel. Art classes were a great asset as they brought out creativity in students, strange as some of it was.

WHAT THEY TEACH IS THEIR BUSINESS

Among all the grumbling of dictation, the hours of studying shorthand, and the clanging of office machines, the commercial students learned one thing—what the teachers taught was their business. Sometimes the struggle seemed too hard to cope with—Mrs. Treese's stop watch, Mrs. Edmunds' favorite saying "Time is Money" and Mrs. Ross's lectures on disobedience. The students complained about all the typing that was due at the end of each period, the crummy shorthand labs, and the blue fingers that came from the carbon paper. But someday, as they sat behind a desk in a nicely paneled business office, they would realize that without all the people and work they grumbled about the most, they never would have made it through. The funny thing was, they really enjoyed it all the way.

LEARNING THE ROPES

The Student Teachers always seemed to get the classes that would give them "the most valuable teaching experience". After having observed their prospective victims for two weeks, the "students" bravely took to the front of the class, where the situation was immediately reversed. Their prey suddenly turned to predator and all the carefully made lesson plans went up in smoke. Somehow they always managed to remedy the situation before the students got the best of them. The greatest fear of the student teacher was to look to the back of the room and see the all to familiar face of their college advisor. This, too, was remedied by keeping calm, waiting until the advisor left, then onward to complete collapse!

A CLEAN SCHOOL AND GOOD FOOD

Here they come, on the run, with a burger on a bun! After all the hours of hard work that went into preparing the day's menu, the cooks were rewarded by a hungry mob of students waiting to devour the day's prey. When the lunch was over, just one look under the table usually revealed the day's menu. The cooks sacrificed much. They shed tears as the onions were prepared for hoagies. They used numerous band-aids for cuts, burns, and scalds. No matter what the "taste" of the teacher or student, the cooks always managed to "cook up" a dish to satisfy all the gourmet tastes.

The custodians were the first to arrive at the school in the morning, and the last to leave at night. Each day was filled with duties of unjamming lockers, unlocking doors, fixing heaters—not to mention scrubbing floors, washing windows, and keeping our school clean. The custodians were always available when they were needed. A person could always recognize a custodian at work by hearing the jiggling of the enumerable keys on his chain. This was the trademark of every custodian.

BUS DRIVERS: KEEP COOL

For our regular bus drivers, the question, "Do I have strong enough nerves to take those kids to that game tonight?" often came up. It took nerves of steel to drive a busload of excited, yelling students to a wrestling match, basketball game, or other extra-curricular activity. It also took much pleading from head bus driver, Paul Black. These bus drivers did their best to get all the students to the right place at the right time, although this wasn't always possible. The patience they displayed when students acted up was absolutely astounding. When the average person would have pulled his hair out, our bus drivers remained calm until the kids were gone and, then, in the privacy of their bus, they may have beaten their heads against the nearest window.

Small Folks With Big Hopes

The seventh grade class at M. C. elect, LEFT TO RIGHT: Mark Himes, treasurer; Cindy Steele, president; Debbie Adamson, secretary; and Bruce Long, vice-president. Starting the year out right, they begin the task of recording all of the big ideas which were given to them by their fellow classmates.

One hundred and eighty nine seventh grade students invaded the halls of Marion Center High School this fall. While the upperclassmen didn't look forward to their arrival, it was inevitable. They arrived with mixed emotions. The frustration of being lost on the first day of school almost disenchanted many of the students. Joy and independence was expressed by many because of the realization of finally being in high school. Also they were relieved in finding that high school life wasn't really as bad as everyone made it sound. They struggled through the halls with many books and a great number of assignments. After a few months most of the students found high school life to be one of the most enjoyable years of their life in which they continued to build up their quantity of knowledge.

One thing that is not new to the seventh grade students is lunchtime. If there is one thing that everybody knows how to do it is how to eat. However these students seem to be doing an exceptionally good job.

EIGHT GRADES REACH THE TOP

Days passed when the eigth graders' endurance was tested by long classes, lack of sleep, and just the thought of four more years of high school. It seemed to them that the school was miles long as they climbed flights of stairs each day going from one end of the building to another. The class of '77 showed its determination to make last year a profitable one as they sponsored a year-long used book sale in room 2. They had a long way to go, but they made a great start.

BIGGEST CLASS YET

The class of "76" was one of the largest classes ever to invade the halls of MC. They boasted over 192 members. Besides attending plays, pep assemblies, and other activities held at school, the members of the 9th grade class conducted experiments, did special reports, speeches, themes, book reports, and other numerous projects, in order to prepare them for their future years at MC. Nighttime activities such as basketball games, wrestling matches, baseball games (whether played as a part of the team or a spectator), field trips, and many other school functions also played a vital role in laying the foundation for a successful year. As the "green freshmen" arrived at junior high school's end they found that their year was built upon in strength, fun, knowledge, and progress, the four tools they needed to build their structure as they came three years nearer to their goal . . . a graduate of Marion Center!

SOPHOMORES STRIKE AGAIN

As they entered their first year in Senior High, the members of the class of '75 found it was time to settle down and think of their future. This was the first year that the class was given a chance to select the area of study they wanted to pursue. As the students branched off into General, Commercial, or Academic, they got to know better the members of their class. All the students in the class of '75 hoped to find Senior High as enjoyable as Junior High.

JUNIORS HAVE THEIR UPS and DOWNS

Above: The Junior class officers for the '72-'73 school year are Susan Philippi, president; Karen Kinter, secretary; Jim Smith, vice president; and Linda Tomb, treasurer.

With the anxieties and excitement of their first year of High School behind them, the members of the class of '74 realized there was just one more year left for them at M.C. The juniors received class rings, sponsored their annual candy sale, a skating party and other activities during the school year.

Majorettes Twirl To Victory!

The Marion Center Senior Band Majorettes captured 1st place this year at the Indiana Area Contest held at Derry Area High School on March 23, 1973. The winning routine was performed to the music "Ironsides," "Go All The Way" and "Grand Finale." After the many hours of practice, and hard work, our majorettes really deserved the honors that they received. Also they marched with our senior band, performed at basketball games and at the Cambria County Majorette Contest held at Johnstown.

M.C.'s Cadet Band Majorettes spent this great year gaining experience for future performances.

Our Music Makers

One of our many musical groups at M.C. was the Cadet Band. Under the direction of Mr. Ralph Cribbs, this group of underclassmen really worked hard to further their abilities in the musical field. Also to gain experience, they participated in several small parades throughout the year.

Two other outstanding musical groups at M.C. were Junior High and Senior High Stage Band. These groups received many honors and recognition on their fine performances. Among the many activities of Senior High Stage Band were concerts and playing for the Cancer Show in Indiana on April 2, 1973.

M.C.'s MUSIC ENTHUSIASTS

The three main vocal groups at M.C. this year were Senior Mixed Chorus, Eighth and Ninth Grade Chorus, and Seventh Grade Chorus. These three groups proved their ability through their annual concerts, among which were the Christmas Program and the spring concert. This year was only the second year in which our Senior Mixed Chorus traveled to another school for an exchange concert. This year it was at Penns Manor High School. Through these activities the students built up their knowledge and received many new opportunities to further their interests of music.

Individuals Excel in Music

Throughout the year, many M.C. students received honors for their hard work and many hours of practicing. The year began with District Chorus held at Richland High School on January 25, 26, and 27, 1973. From the group selected for District Chorus, several students advanced to Regional Chorus which was held at Clearfield Area High School on March 1, 2, and 3, 1973.

Still many other students excelled in the instrumental field of music. This competition started off with District Band on February 8, 9, and 10, 1973, at Brockway High School. There was the competition of District Orchestra held on February 22, 23, and 24, 1973. From here came Regional Band held at Punxsutawney Area High School on March 15, 16, and 17, 1973

Female Songbirds Display Their Talents

Several smaller vocal groups at M.C. displayed their singing talent during the course of the year. Among these groups were Girls' Chorus, who performed at the Christmas assembly, as well as the annual concert. Other ensembles included Stingaires, Marionettes, Jackettes, and the newly formed Ninth Grade Girls' Group who also proved their ability at providing vocal entertainment. These girls, in addition to participating in school assemblies, also sang for other organization meetings such as PTA and the Annual Cancer Show.

VOLUMES OF LIBRARIANS

The Library Aides gave up much of their free time to work in the library and help their fellow students. They often were confronted with remarks about why the stereo didn't work in the library, or they were asked to find Time Magazine, March 23, 1909. Sometimes when there was some free time, they would go into the Catalogue Room to talk, only to retreat when warned by the sponsors of the club, Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Aul. At Christmas time, the members of the club brought in food and collected money for some elderly people in the Marion Center Area. Also a party was held in the library.

"VOICE OF THE STUDENTS"

Student Council was an active club at Marion Center High School. In the years that have passed, they've bought water coolers, sponsored Christmas Dances, worked on Club charters, etc . . .

Last year the Officers were Bob Ferra, President; Sandy Steele, Vice President; Carolyn Schurr, Secretary; and Wanda Tyger, Treasurer. The club sponsor was Mr. Bain Palmer. During the year the council members held a car wash to help pay for the Christmas Dance which was held on December 23, 1972. They collected seals and labels to improve the P.A. system, and they also made up the Activity Schedule.

The Student Council was most important to the student body. It functioned from all the homerooms in the school and also as "go-between" with Mr. Stewart and Mr. Baskin for handling of complaints from the students.

PEP CLUB SUPPORTS MC

The 139 members of MC's Pep Club were constantly on the move preparing pep assemblies, boosting the morale of the student body, and attending games.

The choosing of a Valentine "sweetheart" was the first for MC. Among the contestants were: Freda (Fred) Perry, Roberta (Bob) Simpson, Frances (Frank) Oblinsky, Nellie (Neil) Tucker, Denise (Doug) Hauck, and Teresa (Terry) Bothel. Shockingly enough, Frances Oblinsky, won the close race.

Pep Club also had a poster committee which did an excellent job of keeping our gym walls and halls covered with colorful posters.

Pep Club prepared a St. Valentine assembly for our wrestlers and their match against Indiana. Jeff Burns pulls Bob Ferringer and Marilyn Rearick, while Linda Tomb and Janet Fairman look on.

Photographers and Yearbook Staff Members Bulldoze The Construction of Centerama "73."

The Centerama Staff and Photographers advised by Mrs. Marjorie Null worked many long hours in preparing the 1973 edition of the yearbook. The staff and photographers began their campaign for subscriptions in late October. Bulletin boards with the message, "Wait 'Til You See Centerama 73" and posters of the editorial staff and photographers were placed in every room to kickoff the start of a successful campaign. Six hundred and fifty subscriptions were accepted. Taking pictures developing them etc. and making layouts, writing copy, headlines and identification as well as cropping pictures were just a few of the jobs that the camera crew and editorial staff members did throughout the year . . . The entire staff attended the CWSPA Conference at the Johnstown Campus of the University of Pittsburgh, and the editors also attended a workshop at Ohio University during the summer, to bring back new ideas for Centerama '73.

The Centerama was awarded first place for the fifth consecutive year in a contest held by Columbia University.

YELLOW JACKET STAFF BUZZES THROUGH

Meeting their deadlines once a week was the aim of Marion Center's newspaper staff. The members proved their worth as they buzzed through activity periods as well as fourth and seventh periods, and came up with an award winning newspaper which they published on a bi-monthly basis.The Yellow Jacket was presented the Keystone Award for the 7th consecutive year.

Some members worked many long hours in order to complete the Senior edition of the Yellow Jacket and they were rewarded with the delight and satisfaction of many seniors. The staff was under the direction of Mr. Richard Miller.

After these projects were completed, Mrs. Elizabeth Dell Antonio, sponsor, led the club into discussions that revealed their findings.

JR. CHESS A & B

The amount of enthusiasm generated by the Fischer-Spassky world chess tournament sparked interest in the sport to such a degree that 120 people reported for Junior Chess Club this year. These people were taught the fundamentals of chess, held inner-club matches and were taken to the Indiana Area Scholastic Chess tournament by their coach, Mr. Robert Anslinger. He was very pleased with the quality of play that the club demonstrated and looked to a bright future in the coming years.

MC SPONSORS EXPANSION CLUBS

Besides showing movies for teachers members were responsible for replacing burned out bulbs, splicing film and fixing anything else which could go wrong with the AV equipment. The veterans of AV club helped Mr. Marion Keith teach the new members how to run projectors, record players, and run to aid teachers in need.

Code, a newly formed club this year was organized and sponsored by Mr. August Pompelia. The members of Code Club learned the way to break the language barrier between nations, using International Morse Code. Communication was built up among members as they had to know the different taps of Morse Code. The secret message was discovered and read to several members but was unknown to those who didn't have the trained ear for signals.

Grat minds were dedicated to advancement in their knowledge of sports facts. Sports Whiz was another new attraction this year. The group was sponsored by Mr. Frank Palilla. Members of the club competed to gain points which were awarded for correct answers to sports questions posed by Mr. Palilla. At the end of the year the person with the highest amount of points received a trophy.

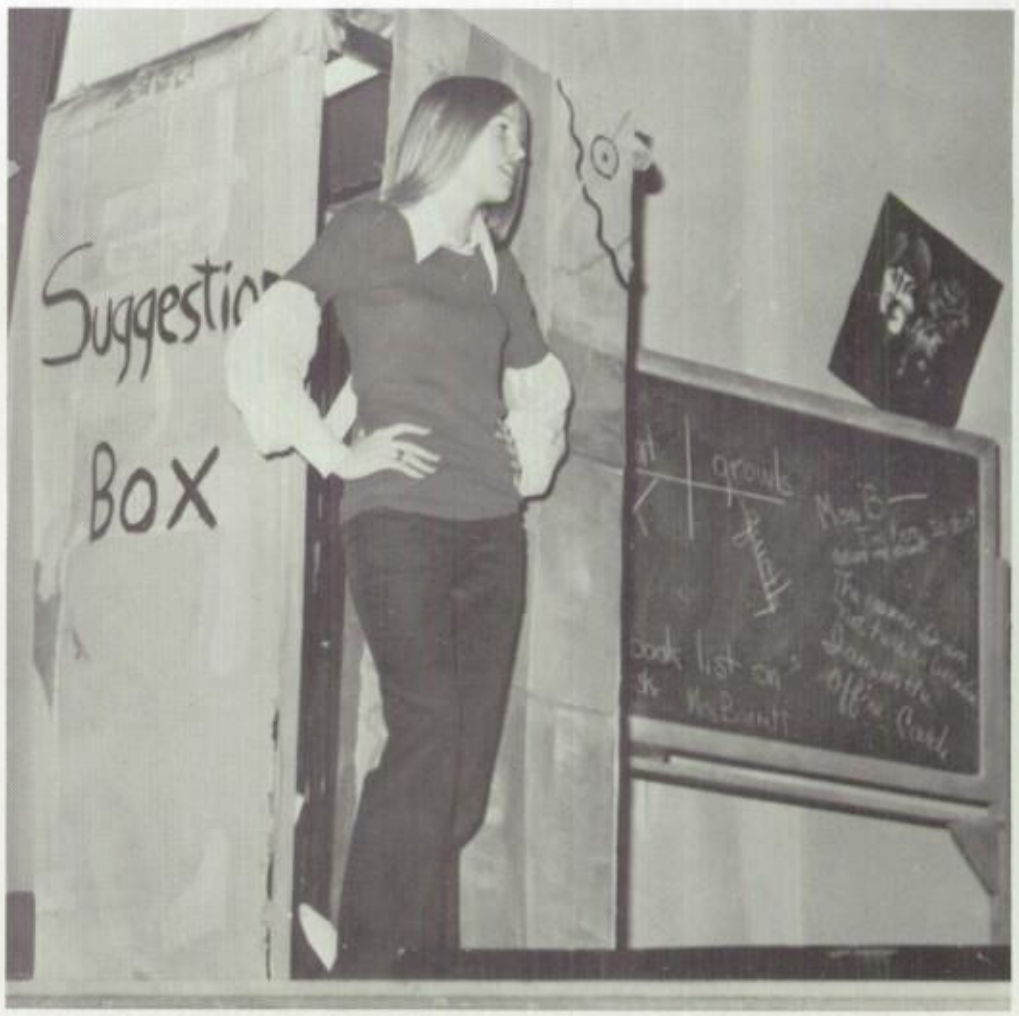
PRODUCING PLAYS: A FIRST FOR SR. DRAMATICS

For the first time members of Sr. Dramatics Club produced the plays on MC's stage. Miss Carolyn Barbor and Mrs. Marjorie Popp were directors of the plays "Cheaper By The Dozen" on November 30, December 1, and 2, 1972 and "Up The Down Staircase" on April 12, 13, and 14, 1973. All members were eligible to tryout and experience the art of acting as someone else. The club held approximately 110 members and associate members. As usual funds were needed. The group raised over $80.00 in a lollipop sale. The Sr. Dramatics Club members felt sure that the year's successes were built with, "Blood, Sweat, and Tears."



In "Up The Down Staircase," Carrie Blaine (Sue Caldwell) comes out of the suggestion box telling Miss Barrett (Joan Wahler) what she feels about her class.

BODY MOVEMENTS: A MEANS OF COMMUNICA-TION

Jr. Dramatics was organized during the second semester of the 1972-73 school year for the junior high students. The areas of theater that were studied included the use of body and facial gestures to convey ideas (practiced by the use of pantomimes and characters) practice of expressions in short skits and practice in basic make-up technique. They also wrote a constitution which included the governing rules of the club. They attended a professional theater production at Pittsburgh Play House, Carousel on May 24, 1973. The sponsor for the club was Miss Carolyn Barbor.

While studying creative dramatics, Patty Hodak, Diane Repko, Marcie Fedor, Donna Taylor, Tom Lostrick, and Dave Receski spell the word "Build" to show how the body can be used as a method of communication.

BUSINESS BUILDERS OF AMERICA

Future Business Leaders of America, FBLA, was a new club formed this year at Marion Center. It was a chartered club made up of approximately 50 business students. Mrs. Barbara Treese was club advisor. Their aims for the club included: having M.C. recognized on the regional and state levels, enabling students to hold office and direct affairs, teaching students to get along well with peers as well as employers, and to better acquaint the students to opportune business fields available to them. They held various fund raising activities such as cookie sales, lollipop sales, and hoagie sales. They also participated in one service activity, bell ringing for the Indiana chapter of the Salvation Army. On March 24, 1973, 30 members traveled to Derry Area High School to participate in Region 3 contests. A formal initiation ceremony was held on December 6, 1972. At these proceedings the Purchase Line FBLA chapter officially installed the Marion Center group as a nationally chartered chapter.

BUILDING A BETTER ENVIRONMENT

The members of Ecology club had a genuine concern for the beautification of the earth. The main project of the year was the monthly recycling program held at Marion Center. Students gathered materials, such as cans, bottles, and aluminum foil. The recycling program helped improve the environment around Marion Center area. Along with recycling program, through the aid of filmstrips during the various meetings the members also gained knowledge on how to preserve our natural resources. The sponsors for the club were Mr. John Fulton, and Mr. Donald Stear.

A SEASON TO REMEMBER!

The 1972-73 Marion Center Varsity basketball squad under coach Ted Holtz had a very successful season, to say the least. Their campaign included no less than four championships. Marion Center was crowned the Class A champs of the Indiana County Principals' Association Basketball Tournament after they topped Indiana 53-51. The Stingers remained undefeated throughout the rest of the regular season, including ten straight Indiana County League wins to give them the County League title. A victory over Penn Cambria gave Marion Center the Northern Cambria League title and a record of 23-0. Then the Stingers downed a strong Ferndale squad by a score of 71-59 to take the Appalachian Conference crown. The team then moved on to the District 6 playoffs, only to suffer a heartbreaking loss to the Richland Rams 77-69, in a hard fought battle at Johnstown's War Memorial February 28, 1973.

The 24 wins were the most made by any Marion Center basketball team and the 24-1 record was the best ever. The Stingers cracked the 100-point mark in eight of their contests, and set records for most points scored in one game, and the margin of victory in one game. The 1972-73 season will go down in Marion Center history as one of its finest.

For the senior basketballers, a season of hard work started with the first day of practice and ended with a single disappointing loss. But in between were twenty-four wins and many, many good times. The seniors of the 1972-73 Marion Center basketball team will never forget their final season.

JV GUYS SHOW POTENTIAL FOR FUTURE

The Junior Varsity team showed just what power they had as they had finished their season with 17 wins and 3 losses. Most of the guys saw quite a bit of varsity action this season, too, as they served as a great back up team for the varsity players. Coach George Krivonick led the guys through their outstanding season. With this season's record, the JV's gave MC fans a look at what to expect in the years to come.

LITTLE STINGERS FIGHT HARD!

The Junior High Basketball team worked to gain skill in basketball as they showed its opponents that they were very ambitious in playing the game. The guys had the difficult task of not only developing their own skills but learning how they could complement the other members to build their power.

Although the team was not as successful as they had hoped, the members always worked as a team and never gave up. The Junior High Team, made up of 7th, 8th, and 9th graders, was coached by Mr. Lynn Fry.

The 7th and 8th grade team finished the season with a record of 5 wins and 12 losses while the freshman team tallied a 0 to 20 record.

HARD WORK RESULTS IN GOOD SEASON

Members of the Girls' Varsity Basketball team learned that hard work and determination coupled with skill and speed resulted in a great season. The girls can be proud of their tally of ten wins and only four losses. Coach Barbara Caldwell along with thirteen girls led an attack that gave their opponents much to remember about Marion Center's Girls' Basketball team.

The varsity girls listen attentively as Coach Barbara Caldwell gives helpful hints to use against the powerful Apollo Ridge girls. This advice proved to be effective as Marion Center won 25 to 16.

JV'S BUILD STRENGTH FOR FUTURE

The JV Stingerettes did a good job of playing basketball during the 1972-73 season. Last year the girls who were on the team for the first time found out that they had a good coach, Miss Barbara Caldwell, coaching them from their first game with Apollo Ridge to their last game with Homer Center. In the end, the Junior Stingerettes had a record of ten wins and four losses.

HARD WORK MAKES A GOOD SEASON

Like they say, "practice (and hard work) makes perfect." This can easily be illustrated by the Marion Center Matmen. This year the squad compiled a season record of seven wins, only four losses and one tie. They also became co-champs of the Appalachian Conference. There were only three seniors on the varsity squad and the rest of the team was compiled of juniors and two sophomores. Coach Young looked forward to many bright seasons on the mats.

The 1972-73 Junior Varsity grapplers also had an excellent season. They compiled a fine season record of eight wins and four losses under Assistant Coach, William Hill. The squad also made up of many young, experienced and eager wrestlers who, were ready to compete with their teammates for a position on the varsity squad.

JR. HIGH MATMEN GAIN EXPERIENCE

Mr. John Fulton, coach of Junior High Wrestlers, devoted much of his time, patience, and "know how" in giving the seventh, eighth, and ninth graders some hints in wrestling so that they could better themselves for future years. The Junior High boys met during activity period and had matches against each of their weight classes. The boys had one interscholastic match against their opponents, the Elderton Bobcats, in which they were defeated. The grapplers gained valuable experience in wrestling from their coach, opponents, and their other teammates for future wrestling matches.

"YOU'VE GOT TO 'FITE'!"

In the frenzied midst of an exciting athletic event, one could make out the shapes of nine enthusiastic cheerleaders leading MC's teams to many victories. A combination of skill, poise, and originality entitled the 1972 cheerleaders to a second place in the 10th Annual Tri-County Cheering Contest held at Purchase Line High School, their winning cheer was "You've Got To Fite!" The cheerleaders were only two points away from first place, which Indiana captured. Long hours of work and practice were the winning combination, but their job didn't end at the contest. Throughout the year they participated in various pep assemblies and had the privilege of cheering for a number one basketball and wrestling team. Miss Sharon Glasser was the sponsor for the varsity cheerleaders.

CHERISHED REMEMBERED SENIOR MOMENTS BY CHEERLEADERS

Joan Gahagan

What did the senior cheerleaders remember about their last cherished year of cheerleading? They remembered how the year first started with the summer practices. They also remembered how many times all the cheerleaders got together to practice in the soggy baseball field and looked as if they had been in a mud battle instead of cheering practice. The Indiana Homecoming Parade followed and the cheerleaders wore their new green and gold uniforms with pride. Another thing the senior cheerleaders will remember were the long hours of practicing for the Indiana County Cheering Contest. The sore aching muscles were worth it since the cheerleaders of MC captured second place. The three senior cheerleaders will always remember cheering for MC's No. "1" basketball and wrestling teams. But it all seemed to end too soon as they marched down the aisle at the Farewell Assembly. Even though some times were happy, some were not, none of these occasions will be forgotten by Joan Gahagan, Shelley Glasser, and Sandy Krouse.

CHEERLEADERS CHEER TO VICTORY

Junior Varsity Cheerleaders for the 1972-73 season cheered on to great victories as they cheered at basketball games and wrestling matches. In addition, the Junior Varsity Cheerleaders also cheered at various pep assemblies that were held at MC. Captain and co-captain were Mary Jo Hertz and Jan Glasser, respectively.

This year is the second year that the Junior High Cheerleaders have been cheering, and they have done a great job. The squad showed a lot of "pep and steam" in cheering for the Junior High basketball team and also participated in the pep assemblies. Captain and co-captain were Debbie Lydic and Terri Warren, respectively. Miss Sharon Glasser, sponsor of both JV and Junior High Cheerleaders, shared the joys the squads experienced as they cheered our teams to victory.

MC PROVES TO BE NO. "1" AGAIN

Last year M.C.'s baseball team proved to be No. "1" again as they whipped Indiana 4-1 and wrapped up the Section Two title in the Tri-County Baseball League. This meant that Mr. Ted Holtz, the baseball coach, and his team would advance into the District Playoffs. This was the sixth straight year that the Stingers qualified for the playoffs. TERRIFIC TRACKMEN

Those funny little shoes with no heels and skinny ankles with no socks took the spotlight during April and May at M.C. The track team showed great patience during their season as four of the meets were postponed and had to be rescheduled because of rain. With a lack of seniors on the squad, the team made many fine showings on the cinder tracks throughout the county. Last year the squad sent 8 boys to the State Track Finals in Penn State. To be able to compete at State, one must place in the top three at Districts. Doing this was: senior Rob Rinkus, who took 1st in the javelin, senior Rod Greene, who placed 2nd in the pole vault, junior Mike Lezanic grabbed 2nd in the high jump. Jim Smith, also a junior took 3rd in the 880 yd. run, and finally the mile relay team, consisting of senior Bill Juart, juniors Rick White and Jim Smith and sophomore Gregg Rinkus came up with 2nd place.

Being such a young squad the MC Thinclads and especially Coach Young, have a bright outlook for track and field at MC in the future.

CINDERELLAS SPRING & SPRINT

This was the first year that the Girls' Track team ever competed in interscholastic meets. This was also the first year that Girls' Track was considered a Varsity Sport at Marion Center and the participants received their letters at the annual Sports Banquet held May 25, 1973, at Indiana's Rustic Lodge. Due to rain and scheduling difficulties, the girls were limited this year to only one meet. This was the Junior Olympics held at IUP. Susie Granata was the only member to qualify to go on to the championship meet at Latrobe on June 9, 1973. Miss Barbara Caldwell, sponsor of Girl's Track, used her coaching skill to cheer Sue on. Most of the members of this year's team were "underclassmen" and MC looked to a bright future in Girls' Track.

STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN INTRAMURALS

Marion Center had the biggest intramural program ever, as the homerooms participated in six tournaments. Homeroom 29 was the only homeroom to win two events, taking Sr. High Basketball and the Team Handball tournament. The "Aces" won the Girl's volleyball tournament. Homeroom 38 took the Jr. High Basketball Title, homeroom 34 won the co-ed volleyball tournament, while Augie's Army (homeroom 31) won the boy's volleyball championship.

STUDENTS REWARDED FOR HARD WORK

Throughout the school year, students worked hard at various activities. Those who combined unusual ability with tremendous effort were rewarded. Some students earned their award for musical ability, while others won theirs for their scholarship and athletic talents. But whatever the case, all the awards were well deserved.

"MONTE CARLO" ENCHANTS SENIORS

May 11, 1973, was the evening for the Junior-Senior Prom at MC. Juniors had worked hard making plans for the big night at Rustic Lodge. Disappointment came to the juniors who went to decorate the evening before the prom, when they found out that they were not allowed to decorate the ballroom. They went back to MC to re-do the gym. Friday morning came and the group worked until 4:00 p.m. and the theme "Monte Carlo" took shape. Decorations which were cleverly made were 6 foot crepe paper dice, gaint-size aluminum foil champagne bottles and the "almost real" bar. Many juniors were tired from decorating all day but the evening turned out to be delightful. The dance music was provided by The Fox, a rock group from Indiana. Not only students, but teachers and student teachers enjoyed themselves. The after-prom's entertainment was another rock group Ice and hypnotist, Dr. C.A. Sherman.

After Prom Parents gave their time and worked in preparing food and serving it at the prom and after prom. They also donated $150 to the senior class for their trip to Fallingwater and Seven Springs, May 2.

"Monte Carlo" was an evening that will long be remembered.

MC'S "MY FAIR LADY" A SUCCESS

"My Fair Lady" produced by Mrs. Maxine Wellen, with the aid of Miss Debbie Gamby and Miss Sandy Mahaffey proved to be one of the most successful musicals in M. C.'s history. Pit Band under the direction of Mr. Keith Bloom played a big role in the success of the production. Costumes rented from New York with the help of our Stage Crew's beautiful scenery also added appeal and zest to the show.

"My Fair Lady" is a musical production based on George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion". The story revolves around an uneducated, poor flower girl and a phonetics teacher who attempts to make a high class citizen of her by improving her speech pattern.

FIRST PLAY, OKAY?

Senior Dramatics, a newly re-organized club at M.C. this year, put on its first play, Cheaper By The Dozen. It was the first effort for the seniors, juniors, and sophomores to unite to put on a production. Everyone agreed it was a smashing success.

The Gilbreth family consisting of parents and a dozen kids displayed many ways in which to save time and become educated. Listening to speech records, while brushing teeth, and an assembly line for dishwashing, time was constantly used.

Anne and Ernestine were not allowed to date due to the fact their father disapproved as in his mind no one was good enough for his daughters.

The family dearly missed Dad Gilbreth when he died. In order not to tell them the truth he said he left on a mission of mercy.

Apple: Joan Wahler and Sam DeGastro.

REMEMBER GOING UP THE DOWN STAIRCASE?

Senior Dramatics' second play, UP THE DOWN STAIRCASE, was produced April 12, 13, and 14 at Marion Center. Miss Sylvia Barrett (Joan Wahler) portrayed an inexperienced teacher, planned to teach her first class at Calvin Coolidge High. The kids were street roamers and tried to give her a very hard time. Paul Barringer (Tom Almes) and Bea Schachter (Pam Johnston) warned her to not get involved. Miss Barrett tried to teach the kids to respect others and understand the value of education. When in the end she won over Joe Ferone (Sam DeGastro) she was successful!

Ice Illuminates Jingle Bell Rock

Escorted by members of the Freshman class, couples entered the snowy world of Jingle Bell Rock. Exquisite decorations turned the gym into a winter wonderland. The Christmas trees and candles reflected soft light on the couples. "Ice" highlighted the evening with various types of music.

A catastrophe could have resulted when Jan Glasser accidentally started the tablecloth on fire, but the blaze was quickly extinguished by glasses of punch donated by everyone at the table. Otherwise . . . it was a perfect evening at M.C.

TOP RIGHT: As Jingle Bell Rock comes to an end, fatigue and tired feet become apparent as Carolyn Schurr dances in stocking feet.

BELOW RIGHT: All tension dissolves into smiles as Jan Shick and Andy Schott relax at their table in the gay atmosphere of the Christmas Dance.

Pep Assemblies Build School Spirit

Throughout the year, M.C. students never seemed to have a free moment to themselves as time was caught up in events for our super basketball team and great wrestling squad. Pep Club sponsored and built school spirit throughout the entire student body. Pep Band provided music which released anxieties and made us forget all the dull moments of the day.

TO BE US

OUR FINAL FAREWELL

Being a senior was a special feeling. It was feeling superior to underclassmen; while it was also a sense of insecurity as we faced an uncertain future. The class of 1973 will long remember all the moments of our senior year. From the day we received our senior portraits to our final farewell assembly, the time flew by quickly. It was time for a new door to open as we said good-bye to the familiar halls of Marion Center and entered the unknown. Our school life helped to change us from wary dependents to confident individuals. It was time to say our final farewell and to express our gratitude to the people who helped transform us into the people we had become.

SENIORS VISIT FALLINGWATER AND SEVEN SPRINGS

As the senior high school days came to a close, May 2 became a special day to remember. This was the day the seniors went to the famous house, Fallingwater, built by Frank Lloyd Wright, and the world famous Seven Springs Mountain Resort. They enjoyed a morning tour of Fallingwater and also a fun-filled afternoon and evening at Seven Springs. Swimming, hiking, bowling, tennis, and dancing were a few of the sports enjoyed. The class traveled by two chartered buses. Faculty members who supervised the trip were Mr. Richard Miller and Mrs. Marjorie Null. Mr. William Null and Miss Faith Saftner, a student from IUP English Department, helped the sponsors with the day's activities.

EVERYTHING CAME UP ROSES

June 7 was the day for the Class of 1973 to say our final farewell to our alma mater as we closed the door on our 12 years of schooling. The final assembly brought alive many memories to be shared by the Class of 1973 in the future. Those twelve years were filled with fear, anguish, love and a real sense of accomplishments. The long awaited awards were presented to the most deserving students as we watched our final moments together fly by. The Class of 1973 paid their final tribute to M.C. by taking part in the flower parade. The Class of 1973 said "Remember us MC as we will remember you."

WE'RE BIG, WE'RE BAD

Throughout the school year MC's students worked to achieve many self-set goals, whether it was winning a trophy or being accepted at a college. Students kept WE'RE BIG WE'RE BAD AND WE'RE BOSS in school life by having numerous activities such as a sports banquet in honor of our No. 1 basketball and wrestling teams. M.C. was also the proud owner of 9 new trophies at the end of May. The basketball team brought in four trophies as they received the Indiana County Principals' Tournament, Indiana County Title, Northern Cambria Title, and the Appalachian Conference. The wrestlers achieved two as they accepted the 3rd place trophy in the Elderton Christmas Tournament and were co-champions for the Appalachian Conference. The majorettes placed first at the Indiana Area Majorette Contest held at Derry, while the cheerleaders received 2nd place for their cheer at the 10th Annual Cheerleading Contest held at Purchase Line High School. The baseball team was also honored as the Champs of Section 4 in the Tri County League. Seven of M.C.'s trackmen were proud to represent our school for the state track meet held at Penn State. Approximately 25 students were seeking to enrich their lives by furthering their education. All of these activities plus many more helped to make the year of 1973. WE'RE BIG WE'RE BAD AND WE'RE BOSS!!!

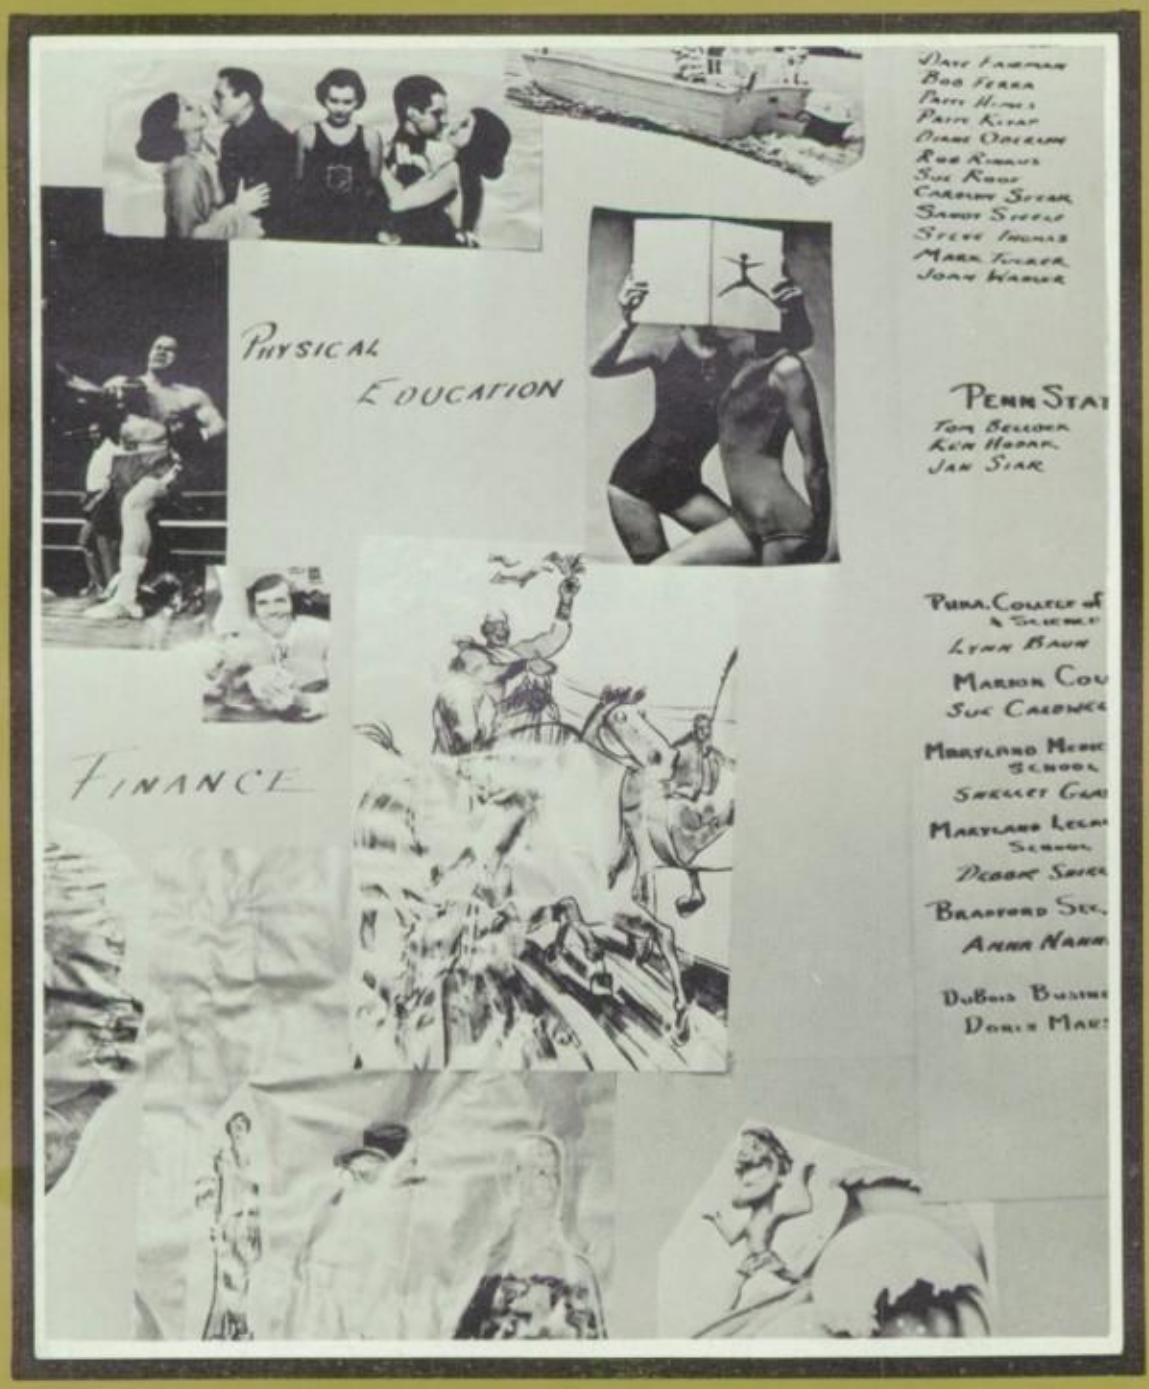
HOW WE'RE



Marie Simpson, Karen Kinter, Linda Tomb, Debbie Pollack and Shelley Stadtmiller.

Dear Friends of MC,

As we look back on the accomplishments and rewards not only as editors of Centerama but as a part of the Class of 1973, we remember the good times as well as the bad. Working on the yearbook this year has brought us the satisfaction that hopefully we are able to supply you with many moments that can be relived by a glance at our book. We have attempted to capture life at M.C.A.H.S. as it happened in 1973. The pictures on the preceding pages can be replaced only by the individual's memory. We pause to give our thanks to all who have made this an enjoyable year, but only for a moment, for the future beckons and we are bound to go. We will always remember 1973 as a year to build memories.

Sincerely,
Carey and Joanie
